

On Gaps and Transitional Forms

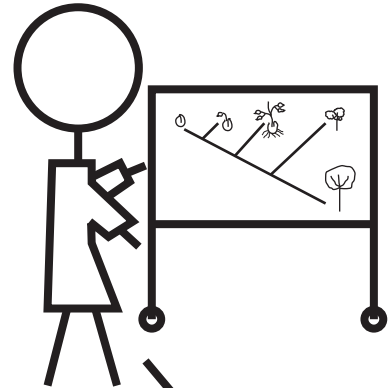

Obviously trees and seeds are different. You've never found a transitional form. There's an obvious intelligence behind it!

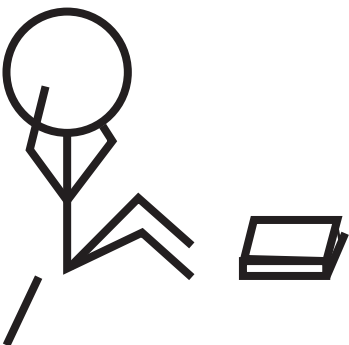

Actually, we have a list of transitional forms, right here, in developmental order.

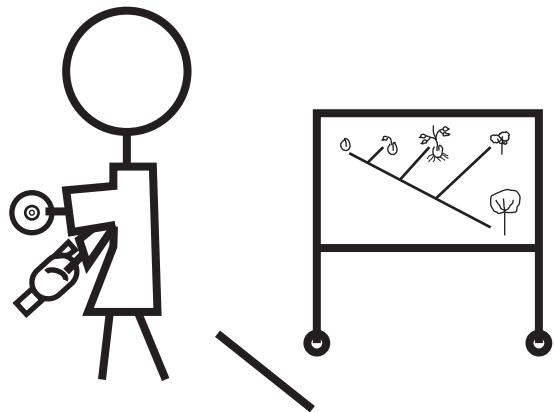

Nonsense! Look, I count four gaps, right there! You can't deny the Word anyway.

But - it's just a drawing. It's unreasonable to include every stage. A seed and a tree are just separated by time.

Same thing! But now you have gaps between the video frames! Not listening!

How about a time-lapse video of a live specimen, though?
